Personal Reflection

Prayer

Today is such a beautiful day, O God. I sat outside with my cup of coffee and enjoyed the morning. I did my morning devotion – listing things I should let go of that I can't control, giving thanks for other things, naming the things I will focus on. On a day like this it is so easy for me to sing, and shout your praises, full voice, knowing you will hear! Help me, God, because I know that this feeling will not last. I know that when the lives of others are on the line, when it is time for me to speak for those who have no voice in our society, I know that at those times, I barely open my mouth at all. Where is my voice when I need to be shouting, when I need to speak up, when I need to stand against racism and injustice. I see pictures, I hear the stories, I am sickened and saddened, and yet my voice is barely a whisper. I want a full, vibrant voice that will speak out, speak up, speak truth to power.....I want to shout - help me shout, O God.....when people are listening. Amen.

Benediction

I will go through this day ready to speak, to be a voice for justice.

Today I will clap, and shout – even when people are listening!!
